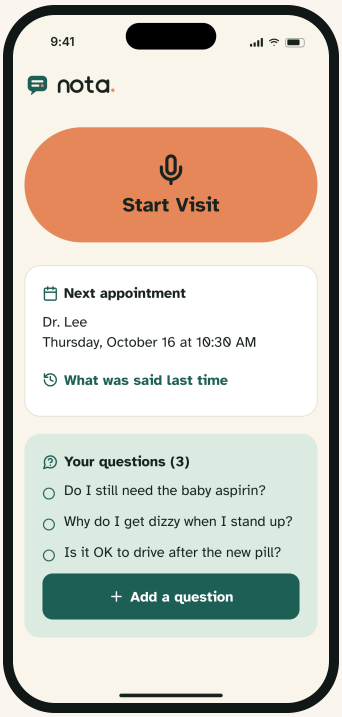
FOR CARE PARTNERS

Help families know exactly what the doctor said.

Nota is an iPhone app that records a doctor visit on the patient's phone, with the doctor's permission, and writes a plain-language summary the family can trust: what was said, which of their questions got answered, and what happens next.



Why your clients need it

- Patients forget much of what they hear in an appointment.
- Adult children often manage care from another city and hear "he said it was fine."
- Several doctors and medication changes are hard to keep straight.

Built for older adults

- One big Start Visit button and large, easy type.
- No password: the family signs them in with a one-time code.
- The family sets everything up from their own phone.

How it works

1. A family member installs Nota, adds the doctors and medications, and invites the parent's phone.
2. At the visit, the parent taps Start Visit. Nota shows a short script to ask the doctor's permission.
3. Minutes later, the family reads the summary, confirms any medication changes, and adds follow-ups to their calendar.

What the family gets

- A short recap, with every line linked to the moment it was said.
- The question checklist: answered, partly, or not addressed.
- One shared medication list, ready to print for a new doctor or the ER.
- Questions that didn't get answered carry over to the next visit.

Private by design

Only the patient and the family they invite can read their visits. The recording stays on the patient's iPhone, the summary is written on the phone, and everything shared is encrypted before it leaves. The patient decides who sees what. Nota doesn't diagnose or give medical advice; it writes down what the doctor said.

Free for 14 days, then one plan for the family

Every family starts with 14 days of the Family plan. After that it's $59.99 a year for one patient and up to 3 family members, or $99.99 a year for both parents. The patient never sees a paywall.
